

Queensgate Primary School

Tuesday 28th April

Dear Parents,

I hope you are all keeping well.

Mrs Lee has found an exciting new reading resource which will be of great benefit to both you and your child in ensuring they are reading books which are appropriate for their personal reading ability. 'Rising Stars Reading Planet' hosts an array of online books which match the books that the children read at school and take home on a weekly basis. Due to the restrictions of home learning and data protection, we are unable to send individual username and passwords via the online blogs. We have therefore setup a private 'Queensgate School' link to the 'Rising Stars Reading Planet' website in which you will be able to register your child. In turn this will allow the teachers to assign banded books to your child.

Should you wish for your child to have books assigned to them as part of their home learning for the week commencing Monday 4th May, I would politely ask that you register your child's details by the end of Thursday (30th April) as this will then allow staff to allocate books for any children that have registered on Friday 1st May. Any pupils who register after Thursday (this week), will be assigned books as part of the home learning for the week commencing Monday 11th May. Teachers will continue to update these books (if they have been read) on a weekly basis to provide regular reading opportunities for your child.

To register your child online please follow the instructions below (this process should take less than one minute):

1) Click the registration link:

2) Complete the registration process by adding your child's name and an email address.

3) Upon receiving the confirmation email, you should click the verification link and then registration is complete. Please check your junk email if you haven't received an email.

4) A link to the 'Rising Stars Reading Planet' log in page will be on the learning blog on Monday 4th May which will allow you to log in and access the books for your child. Please note that the registration link above is different to the link that will be on the leaning blog.

Thank you for all your continued support with your child's learning, it is very much appreciated by all the staff at Queensgate.

Stay safe,

Mrs Clough, Mrs Mott and Mrs Ramsden-Smith ☺
